Problem Statement

Our users are struggling to find efficient ways to find their homework because there are so many different homework websites. Our solution should provide a consolidation of professor preferences on several homework platforms.

Who Is Experiencing The Problem

Students who are struggling to keep up with the ever increasing demands of their assignments and the complexity of school technology. Students who struggle with managing a large amount of websites for their classes also struggle with this problem.

What Is The Problem?
There are too many homework websites that are not easily accessible.

Where Does The Problem Present Itself?
When a student is attempting to submit an assignment for their various classes. It can become a hassle because each class has different platforms to use.

Why Does It Matter?
Busy students need a way to organize their homework and classloads.
